HONGKONG, DECEMBER 7TH, 1908.

PENNY-A-WORD telegrams throughout the Empire sounds an impossible idea now-a-days to most people; but one may count up scores of achievements to-day which, half a century ago, the world looked upon as impossible of realisation. Every institution, some great writer has averred, is the lengthened shadow of one man, and those who consider the matter well cannot be too confident that we shall never see the institution of penny-a-word cables. A new factor has of late years entered into the consideration of the question by the invention of wireless telegraphy. When we dip into the future "far as human eye can see; see the visions of the world and the wonders that will be" it can now, we think, confidently be anticipated that wireless telegraphy will contribute enormously to the practicability of the idea. Mr. HENRIK HEATON, however, in his advocacy of Penny-a-word Telegrams disregards this factor at present. In a lecture recently delivered by him at the Royal Colonial Institute he set his finger on the "political frontiers" as the chief obstacle in carrying out the policy. Therefore the first move must be to abolish political frontiers, so far as telegrams are concerned. In this matter, Mr. HEATON urges that "political" frontiers, by arrangement with foreign governments, ought not to be taken into consideration at all; between man and man they should not exist. It is only in the event of failure to get over this difficulty that he places his hopes on his friend MARCONI, who entirely ignores political frontiers. An allusion was made to this subject by the Chairman of the Eastern Cable Co., at the recent annual meeting of shareholders, Sir WOLFE BARRY referred to the report of the inter-departmental committee which considered the cost of cables in 1902 and declared at the outset that the suggestion of a penny rate to America and Australia to be "quite impractical." From Mr. HEATON's lecture we take what we conceive would be the main feature of his answer to that declaration. "It is futile to argue," he said, "as regards, say, the transatlantic cable rates (i.e. a word) that this rate is based on supply and demand, because the number of words sent in these cables (20,000) represent only a twelfth of the carrying capacity of the lines. This, therefore, is what it amounts to—To pay on the unused eleven-twelfths the two owners of the Atlantic lines combine to charge a prohibitive tariff on the other twelfth, thus rendering what is a necessity a luxury for the few." The argument, as it stands, is not entirely convincing. Increased use means increased cost of administration, but this does not seem to be admitted by Mr. HENRIK HEATON who looks to the cheapening of cable rates to give a flip to the scientist bringing about greater economy in working. We are only yet, he tells us, in the entrance hall of telegraphy. He points to what is known as the POLYAX-VIRAG development as a sure indication of what has yet to be learnt concerning the adaptation of electricity to the needs of modern life. Mr. HEATON's suggestion is that the Governments of the civilised world should buy out the cable monopolists; the present high cable rates that the British and Colonial Governments pay for official cable messages amounting to nearly a quarter of a million sterling, would go far, he says, towards the interest on the purchase price of the cables. The cable companies tell us that the initial amount required to buy out the cable companies would be stupendous, "running into an indefinite number of millions." Mr. HEATON is not appalled by this aspect of the question. In regard to cables to India and the East, and to America, including the Canadian service, the public, he says, is paying in the present high cable charges for abandoned cables, for superfluous cables and also for unnecessary working staff and apparatus. "In other words," the public is paying $4,000,000 a year for what can be done with a few hundred thousand pounds. If the present cable service were wiped out or destroyed, it would be possible to reconstruct the whole system anew for less than one half the original outlay. He is as convinced of the feasibility of penny-a-word cables throughout the empire as he is of the practicability of international penny postage. He seems to have a notable supporter in the Postmaster-General of Canada, who, speaking for himself alone, looks upon the penny-a-word cable as "an ideal, as a blessing, which some day should be attained and secured," and he has expressed a hope that an unbiased inquiry should be made into its feasibility and prospects of success.

Before Mr. J. R. Wood at the Magistracy on Saturday three of the crew of the s.s. Two large fires occurred at Shanghai on the 29th ult., one being at the Travellers Hotel in Hongkong; the second at the corner of Nanking and Chekiang roads. The total insurance in force upon the premises burnt out in the latter fire is stated to be in the neighbourhood of Tls. 100,000.

The death is announced in the Home papers of Colonel J. A. Man Stuart, C.B., C.M.G., who served in various military and civil capacities in China, Formosa and Manchuria. He was present at the operations before Soochow and at the siege and storming of Changchow, and he accompanied the Anglo-Chinese contingent in Colonel Gordon's Taiping campaign.

A very fine collection of paintings by well-known French artists has been brought to the Hongkong Bazaar at the City Hall. A small charge will be made for admission, the proceeds being divided among local charities. There are upwards of over 200 pictures in the collection, and many of them are very valuable. Further particulars will shortly be announced.

Canada has been invited to send a representative to the international conference on the opium traffic called to meet at Shanghai in February. Mr. Mackenzie King has been asked to represent Canada at this gathering by reason of the knowledge he acquired of the workings of the opium traffic in Canada when investigating the damages consequent on the Vancouver riots of September last year. Mr. King is reluctant to accept owing to his recent election to Parliament and his prospective assumption of the duties of Minister of Labour, but as it will be some months before the Labour Department can be organized as a separate Ministry, he may be induced to accept.

The first year's working of the Manila Railway Company in its new form was adversely affected by the fact that in the twelve months the islands suffered from a bad rice crop, which amounted to total failure in certain provinces. This caused traffic receipts to decline owing to poorer revenue from the carriage of rice, while the spending power of the agriculturists was much diminished. The president of the line, at the annual meeting held in London last month, pointed out that the severity of the shortage, which was the worst experienced for twenty years, was forcing an irrigation policy on the Government, which should place future rice crops beyond the range of doubt. In spite of this adverse start, it is very evident that the earnings of the line are important, and this places the "A" debenture bonds of the company in a comfortable position. For instance, handicapped as it was, the net revenue for the past year was $124,000, out of which $112,278 was applicable for interest upon the "A" and "B" debenture bonds. The amount required for payment on the existing "A" debenture bonds was only $64,000, so that a large margin existed over their charge. As they stand at a little above 80, when accrued interest is allowed for, they give a yield to an investor of just upon 5 per cent, which, remarks a London paper, is a very fair return for the first charge upon a railway system which has promise of great extension and improved earnings in the future.

The Home Government has asked him to stay on till the end of 1910. Throughout his administration, the Governor-General has followed a policy of "thorough" in enforcing the authority of Government wherever it was weak in distant possessions and provinces. Signal success attended the unflinching application of this policy in Borneo, Celebes, East Sumatra, and Flores. It met with but partial success in Acheen, however, owing to the Governor-General's ideas being departed from.

THE S.S. "FATSHAN" AFFAIR.

REX V. Q. DE NORONHA.

In view of the public discussion which is taking place at Canton with reference to this case, our correspondent sends us a full note of the remarks made by Mr. Fox, the British Consul-General, at the inquiry into the circumstances of the death of a Chinese passenger on the Fatshan. The precise nature of the charge the Consul was required to investigate was that a Chinese passenger had been kicked to death on the s.s. Fatshan on the night of November 29th. C. de Noronha surrendered himself as being the person referred to in the charge and pleaded not guilty.

The Consul-General, addressing the Chinese reporters who were in the Court, said:—I have been shown a copy of the Chinese newspaper Kwok See Po issued yesterday morning in which the depositions of the Chinese witnesses examined yesterday are printed almost word for word in an article entitled "The Murder of a Chinese Passenger by a foreigner on the Fatshan." This article, published before the enquiry had taken place, had the effect not only of prejudicing public opinion against the accused, but of rendering the evidence of the witnesses for the prosecution unworthy and of little value. Any one of the 600 passengers on the Fatshan having read this article might have come forward and corroborated in detail the evidence of these witnesses. To publish the depositions of witnesses while a judicial enquiry or trial is pending is entirely contrary to Western ideas; and it will be my duty to bring the conduct of the editor of the Kwok See Po to the notice of the Viceroy with the request that he will take such steps as he may deem advisable to punish the editor of this paper for this unwarranted publication.

THE DECISION.

At the conclusion of the enquiry the Consul-General said:—The proceedings at this preliminary enquiry are not altogether regular, for two reasons:—In the first place no definite charge has been framed against the watchman, Noronha, of having caused the death of this passenger. The Viceroy's letter simply states that a Chinese passenger on the Fatshan has been murdered by a foreigner; no further details are given. However, as I learnt from other sources that the watchman Noronha was accused of having done this thing, and as he voluntarily came to this Consulate-General and offered himself for investigation into the truth of the allegations against him, I decided to hold the enquiry.

In the second place, Noronha is a Portuguese subject and as such, if a serious charge of this nature is preferred against him, he should be tried by his own Consul. But I decided, in consultation with my Portuguese colleague, M. de Moraes, that, in view of the fact that the alleged criminal offences had been committed on a steamer's articles, and in view of the popular excitement prevailing in regard to this case, it would be expedient that I should first hold a preliminary inquiry into the circumstances attending the death of this passenger on the Fatshan. This I have done in as public and thorough a manner as possible. A deputy from the Viceroy has been present at the hearing, taking notes and cross-examining the witnesses. The public, including members of the Chinese press, have been allowed to be present and the Portuguese Consul-General has occupied a seat in Court. I have come to the conclusion, after carefully considering all the evidence that has been brought forward yesterday and to-day, that there is not sufficient evidence to justify me in handing over the accused to his Consul on a charge of having caused the death of this passenger. Of the 600 odd passengers on the Fatshan that night only two came forward to testify that they had seen the accused assault the deceased, and their evidence, for reasons which I have mentioned before, I am bound to regard with grave suspicion. On the other hand Dr. Davenport's evidence, given in the clearest and most explicit manner, goes to show that the deceased died a natural death. Under these circumstances the accused, as far as the Court is concerned, is discharged. It is open to the Chinese Authorities, should they consider the result of this enquiry unsatisfactory, to charge the accused in the Portuguese Consular Court, where, I am sure, all charges made against him will receive an impartial and fair hearing. I will ask Mr. Greaves, Messrs. Butterfield and Swire's Agent, to hold himself responsible for Noronha's appearance when called upon.

Mr. Greaves gave the necessary assurance. CHINESE COMMENTS ON THE CASE. The local Press is still publishing hostile articles concerning the matter, and a petition has been sent to the Viceroy praying that the body of the deceased may be exhumed and a fresh post-mortem examination held by three doctors, viz. the Japanese Doctor of the Reform Army, one English Doctor, and one Doctor of the Canton Ambulance Society. It is reported that the Chinese insist that another trial should be held, this time at the Portuguese Consular Court. A dispatch to that effect is said to have been sent by the Viceroy to the Portuguese Consul-General. A boycott of the steamer is also on the programme at the instigation of the Self-Government Association.

The 72 Guild Press comments on the decision of the Court as follows:—

In reviewing the case in which the deceased was wounded by a kick he received near the heart from the foot of the accused, and also a blow given with the hand, both of which were causes of the man's death, it should be said that in both instances there were marks of bruises and there was the clear evidence of numerous persons proving it beyond doubt. Therefore it was impossible for the accused to be excused or held blameless. In reviewing the evidence given by the fellow passengers; of the accused, one of them not only said that the accused did not beat the man to death but that he did not touch his body at all. The passenger died because he fell when he went on board of the steamer and he died a natural death. They actually turned up a case of such grave importance. This can only be described as arbitrary, and treating the Chinese people with contempt. The evidence was false and trumped up and there were many contradictions. For instance the chief officer said that the watchman pushed the man on the shoulder, the Indian watchman said the same thing, but the sailor said the watchman only asked the deceased to get up, and called him twice, when he got up and that no watchman pushed the deceased by the shoulder. Although this is not a very important point in the case, it shows discrepancies in the evidence and we cannot blame the British Consul for saying that the evidence was not clear. The British Consul further said that there was no evidence to show that the accused committed a crime. It is only on account of racial distinction that the matter was hushed up and the Consul had no time to think of public justice. It is really a very great pity.

THE STAMP ORDINANCE.

A PECULIAR SITUATION.

The case in which Messrs. H. Ruttenjee and Son were summoned for having failed to comply with the Stamp Ordinance, by not placing a stamp on a receipt for over $25, was mentioned at the Magistracy on Saturday. Mr. Wood (having dismissed the summons, the Crown appealed against the decision, and the Supreme Court remitted the matter to the Magistracy in order to impose a fine. Defendants were not present when their names were called, and Mr. Wood (the Magistrate) asked if they had been served with a copy of the order.

Mr. Denny, who conducted the case for the Crown, said:—I don't think defendant was served with a copy personally, I believe it went to Mr. Goldring, but if he has not been served he can be served now and I therefore ask for an adjournment.

Mr. Goldring (who watched the case on behalf of defendants):—There is no case to adjourn. The case was concluded at the previous hearing. There was nothing to bring Mr. Ruttenjee before the Court.

Mr. Denny:—He got your Worship's note. Mr. Goldring:—The order under the Ordinance provides that defendant must be summoned again.

Mr. Denny:—I understand defendant has been summoned.

Mr. Goldring:—No; he only got the letter. His Worship (to Mr. Goldring):—Can you give me any authority?

Mr. Goldring:—The Ordinance in such appeal case refers to persons who are dissatisfied with the decision of the Magistrate and not to the Crown.

His Worship:—The defendant has not got a new summons but the letter informed him the case would be called on so that the order of the Supreme Court might be obeyed.

Mr. Goldring read the letter which asked Mr. Ruttenjee "kindly call" at the Magistracy that morning.

Mr. Goldring:—Immediately the case was dismissed at the previous hearing it was disposed of.

His Worship:—There are no forms provided? Mr. Goldring:—No.

His Worship:—I am told to summons defendant on a form. I sent a notification which gave all the information required.

Mr. Goldring:—Yes. But I submit he must be summoned on a proper form.

His Worship:—There are no forms.

Mr. Goldring:—My contention is that the case is finished.

Mr. Denny:—If defendant has not been served with that order, I would wish that he be so served and I ask for an adjournment so that he may be served.

His Worship:—I don't think he is entitled to be served with the order. Defendant was in court and heard the order.

Mr. Goldring:—Oh yes, he is.

His Worship:—It bears the Registrar's signature.

His Worship:—Can I hear evidence again? Mr. Goldring:—A person cannot be summoned twice with respect to the same case. The case was adjourned until Thursday.

BRITISH INTERESTS IN THE PACIFIC.

THE WITHDRAWAL FROM ESQUIMAULT.

The Times correspondent at Victoria (B.C.) writing on October 25th says:—

The Admiralty has ordered the expenditure of money necessary to make minor repairs for the upkeep of the buildings of the naval yard at Esquimault, and British residents on the Pacific coast are hopeful that some day Esquimault will be restored to its former position as a naval station and that Imperial troops will garrison the fortress works. This is the fond desire of the people of British Columbia. To cater to it politicians have, with characteristic recklessness, been promising that they will "use their influence" to have the Navy brought back to Esquimault. The loud cheers indicate the desire of the people. Rumours are constantly circulated giving a near date as the time of coming of a squadron. With each the naval village, receive, and the agent in charge, the lone watchman, meagre garrison of the place, sweeps away the cobwebs from the abandoned doorways of the rusting machine-shop, storerooms, and other buildings. Then the denial comes again. Esquimault is again in despair. British Columbians feel anew the humiliation of the loss of prestige in the Pacific Ocean. They regard the Pacific as the probable scene of future political problems born of the changing conditions in the Far East and South America, not the smallest factor in the change being the cutting of the Panama Canal. Those who have followed the trend of the current conditions feel that it will be necessary for Great Britain to be represented at Esquimault.

At the present time his Majesty's ships Shearwater, Algerine, and Egeria represent the Imperial Navy at Esquimault. The two first vessels are little non-effective police craft, maintained here for the Bering Sea sealing patrol and occasional cruise to the South Sea, a work which had been abandoned on the withdrawal of the fleet from Esquimault until the Algerine came from Hongkong a few months ago to aid the Shearwater in this work. The Egeria is an ancient craft which would have gone to the breakers a quarter of a century ago had she left these waters. She is engaged in hydrographic work only. The buildings at the naval yard are looked up, the gear of the machine-shops is being ruined, for there is no staff to look after the upkeep. It is a deserted village this cluster of substantial buildings once presenting an animated picture. That was before the fleet sailed away in 1903 to the south of Canada.

The fortifications have been given over to the care of the Dominion of Canada by the Imperial Government, and even the kindest friend of the Canadian Government must regret the manner in which Canada has proved recalcitrant to the trust imposed. Instead of an adequate garrison being maintained there is a party of 130 rank and file, with the number of officers almost 23 per cent of the total strength. The number is insufficient to grease the guns, much less to keep the armament of the works in anything like the condition in which it was kept when the Imperial soldiers were here. When these were withdrawn and the arrangement made with Canada to take over the defences of Esquimault and Halifax some works were in progress. Among other things two 4.7 guns were being mounted at Signal Hill, an eminence close to the naval yard commanding the approach to Esquimault. The pedestals for these guns were in place when the garrison marched out five years ago, and they have since been left in the same position on the hilltop, while the two guns lie rusting at the foot of the hill where they have been since they were put there in readiness to be mounted in 1903. So it is with the other works. Nothing has since been done. The garrison maintained is too small to allow of anything else.

The understanding is that the battalion of Garrison Artillery which composes the Militia strength in Victoria, and which for the evenings of two weeks each year is trained on the fortress guns, would be used in emergency to man the guns, the regular garrison being used as a nucleus. A few weeks ago the Militia officers insisted upon a six-inch gun being supplied at the drill hall in Victoria for training, and one of the guns from the Esquimault defences was removed to the city for this purpose. The gun will not be replaced in the fort. At the same time one of two twelve-pounders used in an anti-torpedo battery at the harbour entrance at Esquimault was also removed to the drill hall in the city for training purpose. There is a local feeling, akin to disgust at the manner in which Canada, after taking over the defences from the Imperial Government, has failed to carry out its self-imposed duty of maintaining this naval port.

A movement is now under way on the part of the Canadian Government to endeavour to secure control of the naval yard from the Imperial Government. This is being urged by the Marine and Fisheries Department. Wharfrage is necessary for this service on the British Columbia sea-board, and the officials are hopeful of securing the naval yard as a base for the steamers of the service. There are two, a small lightship tender and a fishery protection cruiser, no bigger than a large trawler. Commander O. G. V. Spain, of the Marine and Fisheries Service, is putting forward a scheme for a new fishery protection cruiser, which will be in effect a training cruiser to train Canadian naval cadets, and it is hoped that the naval yard may be secured as the base of this vessel. There is strong opposition to this plan, the opponents seeking to have two small launches constructed for use in the protection of the fisheries, which have been allowed for years to remain practically unprotected, while a fleet of fishing steamers from United States ports on Puget Sound is constantly engaged in poaching.

The feeling locally is strongly opposed to the idea of the naval yard being surrendered to the Imperial Government to the Dominion, especially when the failure Canada has made with regard to the manning of the defences is considered. It is hoped that the Imperial Government will not only retain the naval yard, but will also send a squadron there to maintain the prestige of Great Britain in the Pacific. It is pointed out that the expected developments in the Pacific will make a squadron necessary. The approaching completion of the Panama Canal will mean as much to the political future of this ocean as to its commerce. The changes in the Far East will mean more, and that a fleet in the Pacific for the protection of Imperial interests will be needed is a generally accepted fact among those resident on the shores of this ocean, which has recently been aptly described as "the ocean of the future."

DR. STEIN'S JOURNEY.

The Allahabad, Pioneer publishes an interesting account of the concluding portion of Dr. M. Ansel Stein's adventurous journey in Chinese Turkistan. It will be remembered that shortly before his arrival at Leh Dr. Stein had the misfortune to be badly frost-bitten in his feet. The journey over the Karakoram Pass to Leh was very trying under these conditions, but fortunately Dr. Stein obtained skilled surgical assistance before it was too late. An operation was necessary which cost the explorer some of his toes, and detained him in Leh for over a fortnight, but after that he was able to continue his journey to Kashmir where a large convey of antiquities, including thirty cases of ancient manuscripts alone, had already safely arrived. The high and hitherto quite unknown mountain region about the sources of the Kuntan river offered exceptional difficulties for systematic exploration but proved of the greater geographical interest and despite considerable hardships and risks the experienced explorer can look back upon the accomplishment of a long planned task with great satisfaction. It will doubtless be some considerable time before the archaeological results of the expedition are known, but it is quite certain that the discoveries made are very valuable and the information and manuscripts brought back by the explorer are likely to add very considerably to our knowledge of Central Asian history.
